A brand demonstrator from T-MARC Tanzania provides product information to a visitor at T-MARC's product demonstration booth at the Saba Saba 2013 trade fair.

Lady visitors to T-MARCs HIV and Family planning pavilion received training on family planning and HIV/AIDS prevention methods including the correct use of Lady Pepeta female condoms.

Through “Jali Maisha” (value life) sessions, men who visited T-MARC’s pavilion at the Saba Saba trade fair received information on HIV/AIDS prevention and the correct use of male and female condoms. In this photo a brand demonstrator tests a participant’s skills on the correct use of Dume male condoms.

Visitors to the Dume condom section of T-MARC’s pavilion also got to a chance to participate in a Mini-Dume Challenge contest where various prizes were won. In this photo two young men battle it out in a game of checkers.

The winner of Dume Challenge Season One, Salum Njwete "Samjet" (in black Dume branded t-shirt) urges on a participant of the "Last man standing" contest during the Mini-Dume Challenge that was conducted at the Dume condom section of T-MARC's pavilion.
